INVALIDED HOME

CORPORAL F. T. BREWSTER FURLOUGHED FOR RECUPERATION WITH RELATIVES IN N. Y.

Corporal F. T. Brewster, son of Mr. and Mrs. George T. Brewster of South Glendale avenue, who fought with the U. S. Marines in those famous battles in Belleau Wood and at Chateau Thierry, has been invalided home and is now with his aunt and uncle, the famous "Daddy" George who founded the George Junior Republic at Freeville, New York. A man who has survived such ordeals is naturally an object of attention. He has been interviewed by many newspaper correspondents and New York would be glad to claim him as her own, but Glendale will never relinquish her prior title, for Corporal Brewster is a Glendale boy and representative of the class of 1913 in Union High School.

His parents have received eastern newspapers containing interviews with their son, in one of which the Corporal is reported as saying:

"There is no fear when the Yanks go over the top; but a mad enthusiasm to get the boches. After the first shell or two has failed to get you, one is simply eager to go on and see what the rest will do—you feel no dread.

"The Huns do not like cold steel and do not excel in fighting at close quarters. Among the prisoners we took, some told us that their officers had deceived them, telling them that the Germans were advancing on all sectors except their own, thus striving to keep up the morale.

"The Red Cross nurses and the Salvation Army lasses are worthy of as much honor as the soldiers for their labors and sacrifice. They are doing a noble work. It is the expectation "over there" that the war will go on into another season's campaign unless internal troubles in the Central Powers become acute."

In the Ithaca (N. Y.) Journal of October 3d was published the following interview with Corporal Brewster:

LIBERTY DAY

Next Saturday has been named by President Wilson as Liberty Day, to be observed as a holiday. After canvassing the matter, members of the local Liberty Loan organization have decided to have no special Glendale celebration but to leave citizens free to attend the Liberty Fair which will open Saturday in Los Angeles on the Exposition Grounds and which is a state patriotic affair.

CLUB OPENING

PRESIDENT MRS. RAMSAY'S ADDRESS IS FEATURE OF FIRST MEETING OF YEAR

The first meeting of the Tuesday Afternoon Club was held yesterday in the Masonic Temple. In spite of the dull gray day, the hall was made bright with the colors of the allied flags. Red carnations and green ferns sent out a cheery hue which welcomed the members and guests.

A reception by the Executive Board was held from 2 to 2:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Ramsay, the president, called the meeting to order and opened with the "Marseillaise," beautifully sung by Mme. Catherine Shank.

The minutes of the last meeting were read by Mrs. C. E. Norton in the absence of the regular secretary, Mrs. Harry Duffield. Announcements of the section meetings were made by Mrs. Von Oven, the general curator. The president announced the Victory Teas that would be given during the winter for the benefit of Furlough Homes for our soldiers across the seas, the first of these to be given at Mrs. Ramsay's on October 29th.

A motion was made and unanimously carried to buy a $200 Liberty Bond, making a total now of $2000 in bonds.

The first meeting is President's Day and all who were privileged to hear Mrs. Ramsay, whose subject was "Immortals and Immortelles of France," were charmed and inspired with a masterly discourse on the work and influence of women in the past and present history and literature of France.

Mme. Shank then gave in her ever gracious manner and exquisite voice several selections, both in French and English. Miss Gertrude Champlain was the accompanist.

Mrs. H. E. Bartlett, Federation Secretary, brought many messages from the District and State Federations.

The meeting adjourned at 4 o'clock to give all present an opportunity to attend a lecture on food conservation by Prof. Tincher.

THE M. E. CONFERENCE

ARTHUR G. LINDLEY BRINGS NEWS OF BUSINESS TRANSACTED AT ANNUAL MEETING

Arthur G. Lindley of 342 North Kenwood street has returned from Bakersfield, where he attended the Annual Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church as lay delegate from the First M. E. Church of Glendale.

Mr. Lindley reports that the entire session was pronounced by those who attended as the best and most interesting they have ever attended. Bishop Thirkield, the presiding Bishop, conducted all the sessions in a most pleasing and successful manner.

There were many fine speakers there whom it was a great privilege to hear. Among them were Bishops Thirkield, Leonard and Warne, Dr. Merle N. Smith, who has just returned from spending six months with our soldier boys in France, Dr. Chas. Edw. Locke, Governor W. D. Stephens, Dr. Lincoln A. Ferris of San Diego, Rev. C. M. McConnell of Ohio Conference, and many others

The Laymen's Association held their own meetings in the Baptist church on Thursday, commencing in the morning with a devotional service, then an address of welcome by Hon. A. M. Drew, representing the Joaquin Valley.

Dr. Ferris gave a splendid address on "The Church and Our Boys in the Cantonments."

The various phases of practical church work were taken up in the Laymen's Meetings and speakers of exceptional ability talked on the various subjects, such as "The Rural Church and its Program," "How the Rural Church May Mould the Young Life of the Community," "The Resources of the Church," "Christian Stewardship," and many other vital subjects, all of which were intensely interesting and helpful to the laymen as well as the preachers.

On Friday the Laymen's Association held joint sessions with the Ministerial Association in the Methodist church, and several of the laymen were among the speakers, Mr. Lindley being one of the speakers on the subject of "Practical Experiences in Christian Stewardship."

The entire Conference unanimously passed a resolution favoring rati-

THE JAMGOCIAN BOYS

Miss Jamgocian of 633 San Fernando boulevard reports that very interesting letters have been received from her brother Matthew Jamgocian, who is with a first aid medical unit attached to the sanitary department of an engineering corps. He writes that he and the three other boys in his unit are billeted in a quaint cottage in a picturesque French village and are learning to speak French; that in the cottage are two Louis XIV beds which they sleep in by turns. They take great interest in the ways of the people, which have not materially changed in a hundred years. In the center of the village is a pond where all the women gather to wash their clothes instead of doing the work at home as English and American women do unless they send them to laundries. He says he would not take a million dollars for the experience he has had thus far. Miss Jamgocian also has a brother, Vaughn Jamgocian, in the student army training corps at Berkeley, taking a course in field artillery in connection with his regular college work. It is quite within the limits of possibility that after he has completed three months' work he will be sent to an officers' training camp.

NEWS FROM ELLIS FAMILY

A letter from Mrs. Lawrence Ellis, who left Glendale with her husband and son Charles Robert in July for their new home in Seattle, reports a wonderful Liberty Bond Parade with more soldiers than she ever saw together before, from all the forts and camps about there, and even more sailors, marines and members of the big training camp at the University, as well as from Bremerton, all marching under full equipment and very impressive. In the evening, Second street was roped off from Washington Hotel to Madison street, and on alternative corners were bands and companies of soldiers leading in a public sing.

The Ellis family have enjoyed a trip to Camp Lewis, where everything is beautiful, orderly and full of comfort for the soldier boys. Several of the boys greeted the Glendale pennant on the auto with great joy. Little Charles Robert Ellis is happy to find that something is done in his Seattle school just like it was in Glendale, and that is they salute the flag just as they do here.

BULGARIAN ARMY SURRENDERS

GERMANS EVACUATE ARGONNE FOREST. THREE GERMAN DIVISIONS ANNIHILATED ON SUIPPE RIVER

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

LONDON, October 9.—Field Marshal Haig reported today that the British have occupied Cambrai. The Anglo-American forces renewed their attack on the Cambrai-St.Quentin front this morning and up to noon were making good progress.

Yesterday's operations netted the British 8000 prisoners and many guns. Americans took 2000 prisoners and captured Dornay and four other villages.

This morning's attack brought the allies before Bohain and the Americans to within two and a half miles of Busigne.

In the Champagne region the Franco-Americans are advancing toward Machault.

The Germans are hastily evacuating the Argonne forest where the French are pressing northward in conjunction with the Americans.

Along the Suippe River, three German divisions were annihilated.

On the right bank of the Aisne the Franco-Americans are pushing toward Lanson.

American operations along the Aire River are making the German position, Grandpre, untenable. Fighting along the Meuse has liberated Verdun from the range of the enemies' guns.

Saloniki dispatches early today announced that 65,00 Bulgarians surrendered west of Uskub in accordance with the terms of the armistice.

NOT INCLUDED BY PRESIDENT IN TERRITORY TO BE EVACUATED BUT TO BE LEFT TO A PEACE CONFERENCE

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, October 9.—It was learned authoritatively today that the President will address Congress shortly after he receives his reply to yesterday's note of inquiry to the Imperial German Government.

It also became known that the President's demand for the evacuation of occupied territory does not include Alsace. He would leave the "righting of the wrong" done Alsace to a peace conference; but a high authority said the "righting" is open to the interpretation of a restoration of Alsace to France.

At the White House it was pointed out that the President's note does not bind the United States to any policy but clears the way for a fitting answer to the German proposals.

This afternoon the President conferred at length with Secretary Lansing and General March. The significance of General March's presence at the conference has not been established, but it is believed the President is studying the military aspects of the situation should Germany decline his demand for an evacuation of invaded territory.

PROGRESS MADE EVERYWHERE

FRENCH AND AMERICANS OPERATING EAST OF THE MEUSE TAKE MANY TOWNS AND 3000 PRISONERS

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

LONDON, October 9.—British, French and American troops resumed their attack on the St. Quentin-Cambrai front this morning and extended the battle front to a sector north of Cambrai. It now covers a line of thirty miles.

The Canadians have occupied Ramilles and report that progress is being made everywhere.

Paris reports that east of the Meuse the French and Americans "in a brilliant attack" swept beyond Consevoye, Brabant, Haumont and Beaumont, taking 3000 prisoners.

During the night the French north of St. Quentin took stubbornly defended positions between Harly and Neuville St. Armand.

BEFORE DAYLIGHT RAID

FRANCO-AMERICANS EAST OF MEUSE SWEEP GERMANS BACK IN INITIAL PUSH, WITH SMALL LOSSES

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMIES IN FRANCE, October 9.—The Franco-Americans attacking east of the Meuse early today advanced a maximum of three and a half miles. They launched their attack long before daylight, sweeping the Germans back a mile and a quarter in the initial rush. Daylight brought stiffer resistance, but the Franco-Americans forged steadily ahead.

Their gains are relieving the menace to the American flank along the Meuse, driving the Germans from artillery nests which have been harrassing American positions.

American artillery has caused twenty-four fires behind the German lines.

In the meantime the Americans continued their converging attack in Argonne Massif, where heavy fighting developed in the center of the line.

American losses in the Meuse and Argonne fighting yesterday were less than half the number of prisoners taken.

CLARENCE BALL DEAD

PASSES AWAY AT CAMP COLT, GETTYSBURG, PA., A VICTIM OF SPANISH INFLUENZA

Clarence Ball, the young Glendale patriot who in the full pride of his young manhood offered himself for the strenuous service of the Tank Corps, was inducted and left here August 23d, is coming back, not in the vigor of health in which he left us but in his coffin, a victim of Spanish influenza. We are to learn in this sad way that Glendale boys, stalwart though they may be, are not proof against this scourge which has ravaged the eastern camps.

For about a month Clarence has been at Camp Colt, near Gettysburg, Pa. Last Wednesday his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Ball of 363 West Elk avenue, received a telegram that he was seriously ill. On Friday a telegram from a friend who had visited him relieved their anxiety in a measure by the word that he was getting along nicely and Clarence himself sent a message of similar tenor to his sister, Mrs. Shaw in Los Angeles, but at no time were the communications from the camp hospital encouraging. Monday afternoon two telegrams advised his parents that there was no hope and Tuesday morning they received word that he had passed away at 6:30 of pneumonia.

Officials of the Elks Lodge in Gettysburg had called upon Clarence in response to communications received from officials of the lodge here, and this morning they wired Secretary Jackson that the body would leave Gettysburg for Glendale this morning, attended by a military escort, and that it would reach here Sunday in all probability. Clarence joined the local lodge about two years ago and was a favorite with his fellow members. While the funeral services are likely to be military in character, the lodge will probably participate. The Pulliam Undertaking Co. is in charge of arrangements.

Clarence was born in Denver, Colorado, but his school days were passed here. He was a student in the High School for two years and his name is enrolled on its service flag. Enthusiastically loyal to his home town, he sung the praises of Glendale wherever he went and had hope to live and die here, where a host of friends will share the grief of his family, which includes a sister and brother in Los Angeles, Mrs. Shaw and William Ball, and a brother Earl in the State of Washington.

LIBERTY BONDS $185,000

John Robert White, secretary of the men's committee of the local Liberty Loan Organiaztion, reports that there is every prospect that Glendale will go over the top, although the subscriptions are not making spectacular gains. They are gaining steadily, however, and in a very satisfactory way because it is the small investor who can afford only a fifty-dollar bond, and that at the cost of sacrifice, who is coming to the front now. The Boy Scouts are doing excellent service, so are the High School pupils, and the prospect looks favorable, though Glendale must not relax in any degree her efforts to reach or exceed her allotment of bonds, because money is worth less than the lives of the boys who may be sacrificed if the government is not furnished with the sinews of war to make possible the speedy ending of the conflict. Up to last night, reports from captains indicated a total of $185,000 subscribed.

SPECIALS AT COMMUNITY SING

A special treat has been provided in connection with the Community Sing which will be held as usual Thursday evening at 7:45 in the auditorium of the High School. Leslie Henry, the brilliant orator and representative of the Federal Reserve Bank, will be present as a speaker; also Mr. Ricks, who has but recently returned from the war front. Those who heard Mr. Henry when he was in this city at the time of the first Liberty Loan drive will want to hear him again, as he is a forceful, magnetic speaker.

PACIFIC AVENUE P.-T. A.

The opening meeting of the Pacific avenue P.-T. A. will be held Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the school. Mrs. W. A. Gallentine, parliamentarian of the First District Congress of Mothers, will speak on legislative measures appearing on the ballot this fall. Mrs. W. R. Dickinson, a member of the Los Angeles Ebell Club, will explain the war work of the Y. W. C. A. There will also be delightful music and an attendant will care for the children. Both ladies and gentlemen are cordially invited.

CUT DOWN ON BREAD

MORALE OF ALLIES AND DEFEAT OF GERMANY DEPENDS ON OUR SAVING SAYS HOOVER

Food Commissioner Tincher of Long Beach who brought the message from Hoover and delivered it to Glendale Tuesday afternoon at the High School, is a young man of considerable dynamic force and his earnest talk made an excellent impression on the good audience which gathered, rather tardily, to hear him. It was recruited largely from the Tuesday Afternoon Club, which convened earlier in the afternoon for its opening meeting. Upon the platform were Mrs. Charles Hutchinson, who is the local dispenser of sugar permits, and Clinton Booth, local food commissioner, who introduced the speaker.

He reviewed the war situation, declaring that while at a pinch armies had fought by sheer man power without weapons or ammunition, that armies could not fight without food, because no soldier can endure more than 27 to 36 hours with any degree of vitality without food. He showed how dependent the little island of England has become upon her colonies, so dependent that she has not been able to produce enough to feed herself for ten days in times of peace, yet now is called upon not only to feed her civilians but soldiers on the longest battle line the world has ever known. Australia and New Zealand are five times as far distant as is the United States. Where can she turn except to her neighbor, America? She is helpless. Helpless too is little Belgium, and France, its northern territory completely devastaetd by Germany, its towns to the number of 207 completely wiped off the face of the earth, its cattle stolen, driven away to feed the enemy.

He showed that under these conditions England has not decreased in its food production but has increased; that today 260,000 women are working early and late in the English fields, and that they have increased the cultivated, food-producing area five million acres.

He made it clear how critical was the food situation at the close of 1917, as critical as was the military situation at Verdun when the small French army said to the Hun, "You shall not pass." January first, 1918, Hoover sent a telegram to Lord Ronda, Food Administrator of Great Britain, advising him that America's last bushel of surplus wheat had been shipped and the balance would depend upon how much the American people would save, and Lord Ronda said in despair, "The war is over."

"At that time," said the speaker, "the American people sat down to their tables to win the war. (Applause.) At that time there came

REGISTRANTS' DRILL

CAPTAIN WATTLES CONGRATULATES MEN ON EXCELLENT PROGRESS

Theodore Peirce, Chairman of the Publicity Committee of the Board of Instruction, reports that the drill last night at the High School grounds appeared to the onlooker to be as well attended as any that has taken place so far, despite the fact that the entire Burbank delegation, numbering over one hundred men, was not there, as they are being drilled in Burbank now. There were even enough new men to form a squad of rookies, and the enthusiasm with which these rookies tackled their work plainly showed they will not be in the rookie class long.

The following new members have been added to the military committee of the Board of Instructors: Captain H. B. Henry, who will act as chief instructor, and Captain Dudley Jackson.

At the close of the drill the men were formed into platoons in front of the grand stand and given a talk by Captain Wattles, who complimented them on the excellent showing they have made in three nights. It has been the comment of many outside military men that Glendale would make a reputation that other districts would find it hard to live up to. The wonderful discipline shown in the work was the chief matter of comment. It was pointed out that each man has a chance to become a non-commissioned officer if he has the disposition to work for it.

Captain Wattles warned the men that the war is not over and urged them to keep their eyes open for pacifists and peace propagandists; to report promptly to the authorities any case that came under their observation. He urged his hearers also not to keep their hands in their pockets.

The next drill will take place Friday evening, rain or shine.

NOT ENOUGH ARMY NURSES

From the surgeon general's office comes a prompt statement that the press reports of a sufficiency of army nurses are erroneous and damaging. It is pointed out that of the 20,000 nurses required before January 1, only 17,000 have been supplied; and that inasmuch as 25,000 more will be needed between January 1 and next July, altogether "33,000 women must be reached and induced to enter the national service in the army nurse corps in less than a year." As the slow progress to date shows, the enlistment of 33,000 nurses is no inconsiderable undertaking. There is no likelihood of our having a sufficiency of nurses—or of doctors—in the army and in the country at large at any time during the war. Every effort is required to arouse the women of the country to supply the demand. Undoubtedly, the response would have been more gratifying if the authorities had devised at the outset a short-term course, say, of six months, for the preparation of a special class of emergency helpers. Such emergency training is now in view. But those who come forward for the regular long term training will also release trained nurses at home for the front.

THE OLD MAN'S CHANCE

Some few years ago it was the popular thing to observe that "this is the age of the young men." The bumptious young creatures were elbowing aside their fathers, uncles and grandads and really thought they were the stemwinding apparatus that made the wheels go round.

But that has all changed. Since the young man has got his khaki, the "old man" has himself grown cocky.

Gone are the signs of "No one above the age of 35 need apply;" the barriers are down and the old man has come into his own. And the boss is beginning to find that there's merit in the grandfather class. The old man isn't as spry as he used to be, but he has accumulated wisdom and judgment that are compensatory advantages, and he is on the job the day after pay-day as well as the day before. Hail to old-timer. May he continue to make good.

AN ANTI-PROFANITY PLEDGE

Major Joseph R. Allen, a K. of C. secretary at Camp Sevier, Greenville, S. C., is working earnestly to suppress profanity among the soldiers. He posts white cards on which are printed in large letters these words: "Christian Soldier, Reverence the Holy Name of Jesus." Then he circulates smaller cards, on one side of which the following is printed:

"God gave you your tongue
To praise Him, not to blaspheme,
To bless Him, not to revile Him,
To bless your neighbor, not to curse him,
To speak good of your neighbor, not evil,
To speak the truth, not falsehood,
To speak purely, not impurely,
To speak kindly, not harshly.

So, use the gift of speech as God intended you should, for His honor, your own salvation and the edification of your neighbor.

Keep this card—keep this pledge."

On the other side of the card, the printing is as follows:

"'In the Name of Jesus, every knee should bend.'

"Because

"Jesus Christ is the Name of the Son of God.

"Jesus Christ lived and died for me.

"I am a follower of Christ—a Christian.

"Ipledge myself to use His Holy Name with reverence.

"Presented by Secretary K. C. building, Camp Sevier, Greenville, S. C."

Major Allen says that a great number of these cards have been signed and that the taking of the anti-profanity pledge has been most helpful in keeping men from the thoughtlessness and sin of profanity.

fication of the National Prohibition Amendment and the Bone-dry Amendment for the state, which will appear on the ballot on November 5th. They said "Vote 'No' on No. 1 and 'Yes' on No. 22," to make sure of defeating the Rominger Bill.

They also unanimously instructed the conference secretary to send a telegram to President Wilson urging him not to consider any terms of peace with Germany until Germany has unconditionally surrendered to the Allies.

They voted to hold Annual Conference next year at Santa Barbara, at the new Methodist church, which is now being completed and of which Mr. Lindley is the architect.

Conference adjourned Monday at about 11:30 a. m., after the reading of the "appointments" by the Bishop.

The Laymen's Association elected new officers for the coming year, re-electing the president, C. E. Carver of South Pasadena, the secretary, W. G. Cline of Los Angeles, and the treasurer, Mrs. Chas. D. Hill. There is a vice-president elected for each district in the conference. Glendale is in the Pasadena District and Arthur G. Lindley was elected vice-president for that district.

A large number of the ministers and some of the laymen left Bakersfield on the 12:15 train Monday, and when they reached the little station called "Ravenna," about 55 miles north of Los Angeles, the train was delayed 7½ hours by a freight train wreck just below there.

The little grocery store at Ravenna very soon sold out everything it had that was eatable, and the proprietor drove his auto up to Acton and got all they had in the two stores there and sold all of that. It seemed to be enough so that no one was left hungry. The train finally reached Los Angeles at about 4:00 Tuesday morning, instead of 7:20 Monday evening.

"KEWIE" IS RARE BIRD IN UNCLE SAM'S ARMY

(By United Press)

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Sept. 12. (By Mail.)—There are birds and birds among American birdmen along the front. One is a rare specimen, the "kewie bird."

A "kewie bird" is a chap who flies little, but always comes back with a tale of terrible fighting whenever he gets into his machine.

"We call such flyers kewie birds," explained one of the real birdmen who never talks of himself, "because the kewie is a bird inhabiting the shores of Newfoundland. It always flaps its wings and squawks a lot but never rises from the earth."

A man never remains a "kewie" long among Uncle Sam's flyers. They won't stand for the "kewie's squawks." The "kewie" is soon "ridden to death" with derision, and ceases his talk.

There are seldom "kewies" in the aviation camps, especially among the men who fly much. Most aviators are modest to the extent of being bashful, and while they will always tell what the other fellow did, their own experiences can be hardly pried out of them.

They'd rather be shot down by a boche than be a "kewie bird."

INVALIDED HOME

Corporal Brewster is among the first of the Marines to be sent back to this country who made history in the second great Allied stand at the Marne. And to The Journal today he modestly related his experiences at the front, the first graphic account of the famous American attack which has reached here from one who took a vital part in it.

Corporal Brewster had just finished a month's intensive training in France after his arrival in May when on June 11 the call came for the men to "go up" to the front lines to hold back the terrific German attack which had reached the Marne river and was threatening Paris for the second time in the war. At that time he was a member of a replacement battalion.

The trip was made in Army auto trucks most of the way. Along the road, the troops passed ambulances bringing the wounded to the rear, a none too encouraging sight for those going into the battle for the first time. Long lines of German prisoners also were met. The Marines arrived within five kilometers of the front line on the evening of June 11 and hiked the rest of the distance to Belleau Woods, where they were scheduled to go into action. The Marines on the line already had taken Chateau-Thierry and were driving the Germans north.

There was some terrific fighting in progress all along the sector, however, and German resistance everywhere was strong. On the march to the front, the Marines of which Corporal Brewster was a member, passed through the little town of Lucy. It was practically a ruined waste, he said, not a whole building remaining anywhere. The place was being heavily shelled at the time and from there on, the journey was made under continuous cannonading from the German lines.

The men slept in the woods that night and the next morning, June 12, when volunteers were called for to go up to the front, Corporal Brewster and a number of others responded and were assigned to the 18th Company, Fifth Regiment, of the Marine Corps. This regiment, with the Sixth, stood the brunt of the heavy fighting along the Chateau-Thierry front.

Heavy fighting was going on in Belleau Woods when the replacement men reached their posts. The Germans poured a terrific fire on the Americans but were gradually forced back. While with a detachment of automatic riflemen, five men on either side of Corporal Brewster were killed, while he himself was miraculously unscratched. Altogether more than half of the company was either killed or wounded.

On another occasion, a platoon of Marines of which Corporal Brewster was a member were engaged in clearing out Hun machine gun nests when they captured two prisoners. One of the latter was able to speak English and he promised to lead the Americans to the shelter of 20 more Germans if their own lives would be spared. The Boches were found in a cave, just as the prisoner described, and the entire party, including a captain, was captured. They offered only feeble resistance to the Yanks.

"The Hun is afraid of cold steel," Corporal Brewster says, "and as soon as the fighting gets close, he is ready to throw up his hands and shout, 'Kamerad.'

"We were surprised to find in a number of instances that the German machine gunners were chained to their weapons and also to nearby trees, so that it would be impossible for them to retreat," Corporal Brewster continued. "They have been filled with stories about 'American cruelty' by their officers and are therefore quick to surrender or retreat when it comes to hand to hand fighting with our men. We didn't give many of them a chance to surrender, however. We shot or 'stuck' most of 'em!"

Corporal Brewster was in the thick of the severe fighting for a week when he was sent back for a rest in the reserve forces. He came out unwounded although in some of the hottest parts of the battle.

After a brief rest, he again was sent up to the front. He had been there only a short time when he started back to get some rations. When about 100 yards from the dugout he was struck in the foot with a piece of high explosive shell. Five bones were broken. He was taken to an evacuation hospital for first aid and then sent to a base hospital, where he remained for two months, after which he was invalided back to this country.

While he has practically recovered from the effects of his wound, Corporal Brewster is not yet able to stand hiking of any extensive character. He hopes to get back on the firing line with his comrades as soon as he has fully recovered the use of his foot.

On the transport which brought Corporal Brewster back to this country were 150 other wounded Yankees who had been in the battles at the front.

Corporal Brewster has been in the Marine Corps since May, 1917. He was in this country for practically a year before sent overseas. He enlisted in California. Several years ago he was a citizen of George Junior Republic, the institution which was founded by his uncle, W. R. George. He is 24 years old.

Personals

Dr. G. Irwin Royce of this city is in Riverside attending a big poultry show. He is expected home the last of the week.

Mrs. E. M. Brundige of Oakland is the guest of her granddaughter, Miss Laura Roberts, assistant librarian, and will probably be here for several weeks.

Rev. J. N. Hoover of Lindsay will address the people of the Baptist Church at the prayer service tonight. It is probable that Rev. Hoover will accept the call to the pastorate of the church.

A jolly party of Glendalians motored to the big aqueduct reservoir Sunday, where a picnic dinner was spread, the party including Miss Coral Griffith, Mr. Calkins, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Shattuck and daughter Leona.

Miss Marguerite Stauffacher and Miss Laura Roberts spent Monday afternoon in Los Angeles, where they attended the theatre and took in Douglas Fairbanks' "He Comes Up Smiling," which they pronounce all right as a show.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Mull of Pana, Illinois, have been the guests of Mrs. Danford, City Librarian, for the past week. They have been visiting a daughter in the northern part of the state and passed through Los Angeles on their way home.

Clarence E. Kimlin, Manager of the Glendale Sanitarium, is in Oakland attending a conference of sanitarium officials. During his absence, Mrs. Kimlin and baby are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burnham of Garfield avenue, who have been spending a month at Manhattan Beach.

Mrs. J. J. Burk of South Maryland avenue (Blanche avenue) says when last she heard from her soldier son Merritt, he was en tour with other members of the Coast Artillery Band selling Liberty Bonds. Their itinerary included Santa Ana and Anaheim and according to his reports they were meeting with great success. J. J. Burk is still at Fullerton, where he is just finishing a ranch house he has been building near Placentia.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jennings, former residents of this city in the Tropico district, are exceedingly busy on their ranch at Chino harvesting a fine crop of walnuts. Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Gabaig, son and daughter-in-law of Mrs. Jennings, recently spent the week end with her at Chino and report that very satisfactory news has been received from her son Louis Gabaig, who is across the water with a cavalry division. He writes that he is well and seems to be as pleased with France as are all the rest of the Glendale soldier boys who are there.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Fishel of West Park avenue had the very great pleasure of entertaining last week their son Walter Fishel, who was home on a four-day furlough. He is in the radio station at Point Loma and likes his work very much. In connection with it he has had to make a study of telegraphy. His brother Harvey, who is overseas in France, is now Corporal Fishel. He is with the 40th Headquarters Troop, commanded by Major Strong, and writes that he is well and enjoying the service, that the French people are very kind to the American soldiers.

Several complaints have come to this office in regard to a bunch of young hoodlums who are accustomed to congregate at the corner of Los Feliz road and San Fernando road and make themselves generally obnoxious. Their favorite stunt is to hail a passing motorist and tell him he has a flat tire. When he gets out to investigate, he is jeered at. One driver reports that as he was about to turn the corner and gave the proper signal, one of the boys ran out as if to cross in front of his machine, tending to confuse him. Such acts might easily cause a serious accident for which the driver might be blamed. The News does not know who these boys are nor do those who have made complaints, but some steps should be taken to disperse the crowd in the interest of public safety.

Another Glendale man, William Lindsay Moore, who enlisted with enthusiasm and left here a short time ago in seemingly the pink of physical condition, has been at death's door for a week from an attack of pneumonia which followed on the heels of an operation he underwent recently at a Los Angeles hospital in obedience to the instructions of the Board of Examining Physicians of this District to fit himself for military service. His friends charge that following the operation he was neglected by hospital attendants and was allowed to lie all night with the wind blowing across his bed, which developed the cold that resulted in pneumonia. The Exemption Board reports that the charges are being investigated by the Department of Justice. This morning the news from the hospital is quite encouraging and Mr. Moore's prospects of recovery seem bright.

forth from the food administration declarations of wheatless days and meatless days, the execution of the 50-50 rule, the constant, incessant hammering at the public to conserve and save. The administration said the wheat must be held to ship abroad because out of it can be made bread that will endure the longest, bread that is the most transportable, and our problem is to feed not only the soldiers but the civilian population. Those who have been across the sea say the nearer you get to the front line trenches, the more you find of sugar, and the best bacon and beefsteak, hot biscuits, pies and everything. And that is as it should be. (Applause.) Of course we must feed our soldiers, even though you and I go hungry.

"But the civilian populations of France and England must be fed, too, because bread means spirit, bread spells morale. Let a man or woman go hungry for even a short time and see what an effect it has. Bread lies at the bottom of law. A population will not be a law-abiding people if it is starved.

"The women of England who are working on the farms have gone to their meals having not enough to feed their children and less than enough to feed themselves, yet they have not complained; but let that condition prevail for any length of time and you will find the morale of the French and the English people will fall like a stack of cards.

"Of course the boys must have plenty to eat, but the civilian populations are really the people whom you are feeding. The government will see to it that the soldier gets his food. The civilian population must be fed out of the surplus and out of your savings.

"This saving is a matter of personal honesty and it has succeeded. In the program of this food battle it is the man who runs the grocery who has played a tremendous part and the Food Administration does not overlook that fact. It lays down the rules and regulations, but it looks to the grocers to see that the thing is put across, and they are serving their country loyally in the stand they are taking.

"You are asked to save one slice of bread a day and you think it doesn't amount to much, but figuring our population at 22 million families, it is estimated that if each person would save a slice of bread a day, as many did, it would mean that we would have four hundred and fifty-six million loaves of bread in a year and one million, seven hundred thousand barrels of flour, and seven million bushels of wheat, or the crop of 500,000 acres of land.

"When you save your lump of sugar, do not forget that the lump is not confined to Glendale but reaches across to Europe and means that you (in the aggregate) have saved in the course of a year 26,700 barrels per week, which in a year amounts to considerably over one million barrels.

"Then cut out your meat once a day and get along without your pork or beef. The effect of this saving has been that since 1914 the United States has not only increased its exports of beef but has actually increased its surplus at home, and all owing to the fact that this thing has been systematized.

"Up to the first day of September, 1918, nine months after that telegram had been sent to Lord Ronda, the American people had sent to England 115 million bushels of wheat, saved out of the homes. A short time ago there was a campaign on in California for collecting surplus flours from the homes. That flour was sent to San Francisco and from San Francisco there was shipped one hundred thousand barrels of flour, saved by the housewives of California by giving up a little surplus. These are not little things, they are big things.

"It is not a serious thing cutting off a little here and there. We are all better off for there is too much overeating. Instead of living to eat, we should eat to live.

"The value upon the morale of the allies is worth half a dozen battles because it solidifies them. They realize the Americans are in this thing for all they can give.

"In July the allies estimated their minimum requirements for civilian uses alone to July 1st, 1919, at 29 million tons of food. After conference, the figure was reduced to 23 million tons. To America has been allotted fifteen million tons of food to be saved. Last year it amounted to ten millions. This year we are asked to give fifty per cent more. This fifty per cent increase can be easily accomplished by the personal equation, the personal effort. Send fifteen million more tons and Germany will find the Rhine and Berlin and we will also find it. (Applause.)

"Your task and the task of the Food Administration is to see that the people generally understand, not that they MUST. There is no MUST, with a democratic people, first because it tastes of Prussianism and autocracy, and second because the voluntary effort will exert a tremendous force upon our allies and our enemies. Imagine the condition of the German mind when he learns that France and England are taken off of rations and can eat what they have, but that what they have depends upon our own voluntary action. Germany on seeing that condition, must fall. Consider the effect upon the civilian populations when they know that through the savings of Americans it has been made possible.

"This great government through its Food Administration does not care and will not seek to say MUST. Therefore the problem becomes one of personal service and in these days service has been defined to mean so many things and used in so many different angles it has been distorted and misused. We talk of service in buying Liberty Bonds and giving to the Red Cross and in conserving food, and yet how little we know of service. We are simply dipping in a little here and there and the great compelling force is that when the boys come home we may be able to stand up and say, 'I did all I could to bring you back as you are.' That does not mean a lump of sugar a day, it merely means that is one expression.

"Fight the garbage can. Fight the submarine at your table three times a day; fight the battles of the western front by saving, and no better satisfaction can crown your efforts than to know that by your saving have you not only made the world safe for democracy, but made democracy safe for the world by reason of the fact that you have given yourself in some degree to this service.

"The Food Administration sends this message to you that you may know that what you have done has brought tremendous results, that what you are doing is appreciated, and that the program calls for not a lessening but a tightening and the giving of all you possibly can in the line of food conservation that everything may be done to hasten the end, to save the lives of men and accomplish the great task for humanity for which we have set out."

Following the lecture, the question was asked why the 50-50 regulation was changed and why but 20 per cent of substitute was incorporated in the Victory flour. Mr. Tincher explained that the change had been made because the stocks of coarse grain had been so drawn upon as to seriously threaten supplies of feed needed for domestic animals, that dairy cattle had been slaughtered because of the scarcity and high price of feed. For that reason, he made it clear, the only way the required saving can be effected and at the same time maintain the source of our butter, milk and meat supplies is by cutting down our bread ration and eating some other kind of food as a substitute.

America's Coming of Age

By Dr. Frank Crane

America is coming of age.

The nation's hundred years of democracy have been but the preparation for its manhood.

It is a cheap jibe to say that America was unprepared for this war. It has had the mightiest preparation in the history of nations. For over a century Destiny has been preparing in this New World a spirit of triumphant Democracy. Such a spirit cannot be made. It must be grown, inbred.

On this Western Continent Destiny has been training the young Galahad for the rescue of the world.

Nature has an antidote for every poison.

American Democracy Is the Antidote for German Autocracy

Every one of our wars has been for the same purpose: to liberate the common man.

The Revolution of 1776 was to get the privileged class of England off the backs of the American Colonists who were redeeming this wilderness.

The War of 1812 was to rescue American seamen from oppression.

The Mexican War was to liberate the settlers of Texas from the whimsy cruelty of Mexico.

The Spanish War was to save the people of Cuba from the tyranny of the Spanish Government.

Every time our army and navy have gone forth it has been to clean up some filthy autocracy.

But all of our wars have been but a preparation for our present task. We did not realize it. No man foresees his Destiny, no nation foresees its mission. Yet the life of every nation, as of every man, is a plan of God.

God has been piling up riches on this continent until we are the wealthiest nation in the world. He has been sharpening our inventive skill and our business ability. Our training has been intensive.

Now God says, "America, you are come of age. All I have done for you is to prepare you for the present conflict, for your real work. Go forth and make the world a decent place to live in."

At this time every son of America is called upon to do his utmost. The slacker is a traitor.

We are sending men across the ocean, men who are physically and mentally the pick of the world, an incomparable army. But the men at home must back them up.

It is as much our solemn duty to put our money into the Fourth Liberty Loan as it is the duty of the soldier to stand firm at his post in battle.

This Fourth Liberty Loan is to be our supreme effort. God helping us, we shall not be found wanting. Let us subscribe all we can, and a little more.

America, Civilization, Democracy, Humanity expect every man to do his duty.

Don't Hedge—Buy Fourth Liberty Loan Bonds to Your Absolute Limit!
